Opening of the Court of Over and Terminer-Cases Disposed Of.

An Actress' Breach of Contract.

THE ALEXANDER DIVORCE SUIT

The United States Courts, for the past few days, have presented an appearance of order and quiet especially since Commissioner Davenport's friends. the election deputies, have been all, or nearly all,

In consequence of the passage of the law abolish ing moleties very little trouble of late has been ex-perienced by United States Commissioners in this city with reference to ascertaining who have been the informers? in certain cases. The abolition of moieties has been followed by a diminution in the fees of Commissioners, the time of some of whom was much taken up in finding out who was entitled to what was called the "informer's share." No shares of this kind are to be distributed.

William M. Tweed, Jr., thought some time since he would like to be immortalized in a book of hiographical sketches of prominent men, to be oushed by Mr. Frederick H. Green. It is alleged that he signed a contract agreeing to pay a cerfalled to furnish his portrait, which was to accompany his biographical sketch. Suit was brought en this contract; but Mr. Green, tailing to turn up. Judge Robinson, of the Court of Common Pleas, yesterday dismissed the suit.
In the Marine Court, Part 2, yesterday, Judge

Joachimsen presiding, the case of Henry Allen vs. the Graphic Company was called, in which the plaintiff sues them for $1,000, for lalse imprisonment, but owing to the absence of important witnesses, the hearing was postponed.

District Civil Court, had his salary reduced by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. He received under protest the salary as reduced. though giving a receipt in full. Upon bringing suit to recover the amount he claimed due him his receipt in full was set up in detence. A demurrer was made to the answer and vesterday Judge Robinson sustained the demurrer and directed a verdict for the plaintiff.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.

Opening the proceedings in this Court vester. day-Judge Brady on the Bench-was an oral decision, given by Judge Brady, denying the motion to quash the indictment against the sixteen inspectors of election charged with violating the Election laws. After denying the motion he or-dered the case to be set down for trial on next dered the case to be set down for trial on next Monday.

On the heels of this there ensued an episode not altogether unknown in the criminal courts, out decidedly of rare occurrence. Franz Pospischiel, a rather stolid looking man of decidedly Teutonic appearance, was called up for trial, the charge against him being the commission of an outrage in August last upon Hannah Anderson! a very pretive looking girl of about sixteen. He was recently tried in the Court of General Sessions, when the jury failed to agree, when the case was sent to this Court.

"I vanis no trial." he said when the case was this Court.

"I vants no trial," he said when the case was called, "but vill marry this woman."
"Perhaps she is not willing to marry you," said Jaoge Brady. "How is it Hannah; will you marry Oh, yes, if he will marry me," she answered,

"Oh, yes, if he will marry me," she answered, with a pleased but modest smile.

"You must marry her at once," continued the Judge, addressing Pospischiel, and then turning to the fair complaining the said, "You go with this man to the Mayor's office and bring back a certificate of your marriage and I will set him free." The twain at once left under the escort of an officer and in a few moments returned producing a certificate of marriage. Judge Brady gave them a few words of good advice and the newly married pair left smiling and happy.

The only other business transacted was calling on for trial the case of Bernard Goetz, indicted for arson, in setting fire, as alleged, to his residence,

It being announced that she was about to appear at a New York theatre, application was made yesterday to Judge Robinson, holding Special Term of the Court of Common Pleas, to restrain her from nuffilling any such engagement. It was set forth in the answer that the rough contract she signed was different from the one submitted in Court; that no respectable actress would engage for "any role," and that the understanding on her side was that she was to appear as leading lady. Judge Robinson took the papers, reserving his decision.

A DIVORCE SUIT.

An action for divorce on the ground of alleged cruelty was some time since instituted by Mrs. Eliza H. Alexander against her husband, J. B Alexander. Pending the suit, Judge Westbrook gave an order that the husband was entitled to the custody of the children, but Mrs. Alexander, instead of transferring the children to her husband, assconded, taking them with her, and cannot, it is said, be found. On the matter coming not, it is said, be found. On the matter coming up in Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday, before Judge Barrett, on a motion for an order to the referee, ex-Judge Mitchell, to certify his minutes of the testimony without giving any opinion in the case, Mr. Macfariand, on behalf of the husband, insisted that the wife being in contempt of court, her counsel, Mr. Parsons, had no right to appear for her; while on the other hand it was contended that she had to appear as far as regarded her rights, though not to ask any favor at the hands of the Court.

The plaintin further testifies value at the time. The plaintiff further testifies that upon the defendant receiving back his rights from the Schillinger Artificial Stone Company, on his demanding additional pay for the additional labor, the defendant said if all went well he expected to make him a present of $500 at Christmas, which plaintiff told him he should expect to receive in any case or he would not remain, and to which remark no reply was made. The total amount due on all the accounts was claimed by the plaintiff to be about $500. Thursday night as Officer McClelland, of the Pourteenth precinct, was pacing his beat in Houston street he noticed a man who was acting in a very disorderly manner, and proceeded to arrest him. The man made a resistance, but the officer finally overcame and brought him to the station house, where on examination of his person a pair of brass knuckles were found. When questioned in Court as to now he came by the articles, he said he had received them from a young man whose name he did not know. The Judge committed him to answer the charge of carrying concealed waspons.

Yesterday Officer Corr, of the Tombs police, arrested Daniel Doyland on a charge of obtaining money by talse presences from James Barnes, of No. 319 Mott street. From Barnes' testimony it appears that Doyland sold him a liquor store on Twenty-sevents street, saying he had a seven years' lease for the same, which he would transfer. Under these circumstances Barnes bought the fix-tures and stock in the store, but found out later that Doyland had no lease, and on this he pre-ierred his complaint for ialse pretence.

The reverend gentieman denied the charge most emphatically, and offered an explanation of the matter, of which the following is the substance:—He lives with his mother-inlaw, who owns the bouse. There being more room in than he and his ambig required he let a portion of the house to a lady whose servant Kate is. The restal arrangements between himself and his tenant not proving satisfactory, he wished to get rid of her—in fact, he ordered her to leave, and the result was considerable ill-feeling, which culminated a week ago in an open rupture between Kate and Mrs. Ormsby, who, with her mother-in-law, invesded the privacy of Kate's domain (the kitchen) and interfered with her in her work. She ordered them out with oaths and threats and opprobrious names, learing which Mr. Ormsby went into the kitchen, took hold of her by the shoulder and ordered her to leave the place. She took up the hatchet and attempted to strike him with it, but he took it away and pushed her out, when she fell down, and might is that way have received her black etc.

The examination was adjourned until Monday, the 19th inst. When Kate and her employer, after leaving Court, returned home they found themselves locked out, and they returned to get the assistance of the Court. They wanted a search warrant, but the Court radiased to grant one, their remedy, he said, being city in a civil action.

Walle h the hands of the latter, bowever, business continued to be done there by his employes. The Meropolitan Gas Company, on the first intimation of trouble in the premises, removed the gas mete; but an employe named James Ken-nedy, gdng there one evening, saw the gas burn-ing in the store as usual. On examination he liquid that the service nimes of the commany were connected to those in the store by means of a rubber tube, which had been made, one of the bartenders informed him, by Mr. Crotty. The foregoing facts were sworn to by Kennedy before Judge Murray, and Crotty was arrested. An examination into the matter was held yeaterday, when Crotty testified in his own behalf tuat he had been in the store but once after it had been seized by the Sheriff, and he knew nothing whatever of the stealing of the gas. THE NAUTICAL SCHOOL

The Public School on Board the Marys-Boys Who Are to Become Good Seamen-The Standard of Seamanship To Be Elevated.

The announcement in the HERALD that the Secretary of the Navy had detailed a United States man-of-war—the St. Marys—as a schoolsnip for the use of the Board of Education of this city has created a feeling of agreeable surprise among the shipping men and all those taking an interest in many who doubted at first whether the plan of the Board of Education of establishing a nautical school would ever be executed; but it now bids fair soon to become un fait accompti. The lack of thoroughly trained young seamen fully competent to take charge of American ships has long been felt by shipping men in New York, and they hail with satisfaction this laudable attempt at supplying so great a want. There are those who sneer at it, of course, saying that, as American ships are fast disappearing from the seas, there will be very little use for American seamen; but the vast majority of our shipping men are still in hopes that the American mercantile marine will once again revive and flourish as it did of old. DESCRIPTION OF THE SCHOOL SHIP.

DESCRIPTION OF THE SCHOOL SHIP.

The St. Marys, which has been designated by the Secretary of the Navy as the school snip for New York, is a rather old sailing vessel of good proportions, her tonnage being 766 and her displacement 1,025. She carries 16 guns and has of late been stationed at the Norfok Navy Yard. She is now in Boston, where she will probably be repaired. The Board of Education have given this project in charge of the special committee appointed for the purpose, and which is composed of the following gentlemen:—David Wetmore; Joseph Seigman, the well-known banker; Whitam Dowd, A. J. Matthewson and J. D. Vermitje. Mr. Wetmore and the other members of the committee are of the opinion that the St. Marys will require considerable repairs and alterations before she will be suited for the objects in view. It is confidently hoped that the government will cause these repairs and alterations to be made, as a delay in the opening of the school might otherwise ensue from the limited means at the command of the Board. The appropriation which was asked by the Board of Education was $50,000 for the first year; but the Board of Appropriation which was asked by the Board of Education was $50,000 for the first year; but the Board, however, will undoubtedly soon make an adequate appropriation, and it is not expected that any obstacles will be encountered in this quarter.

HER MECHISARY PREPARATIONS.

Mr. Wetmore, who devotes much of his time to this project, hopes that the St. Marys will arrive here by the 15th of November, and then the school will be opened at once. Some of the necessary preparations have already been made. The commander petinion, and it is not expected that any obstacles will be encountered in this quarter.

tical school any robust boys who have received a fair education; but its their aim to select those who show a special aptitude for sea life. While under the charge of Captain Pithian the scholars will receive full board. They will have to live on board the St. Marys and wear a cheap but beat uniform of a naval pattern. The education will be tree of charge, and Mr. Wetmore is also of the opinion that those desiring to pursue their studies after their terms have expired will be taken care of by the Board and fitted for taking positions as mates and captains. The education on board the St. Marys is simply intended to train them in the rudiments of seamanthip, so as to make good sailors of them. It is expected, however, that shipping men will not take the graduates of the nattical school to place them among the common sailors, but will allow them to mess esparately.

Mr. Wetmore and the other members of the committee are thoroughly convinced that the execution of this admirable plan will tend to greatly elevate the standard of American seamanship. That such an elevation is saily needed any one who is acquainted with the characteristics of our sailors will readily admit. Shipowners who have conversed with Mr. Wetmore on this subject have generally expressed their sincere gratification at the probable execution of this plan, and given mim assurances that they would gially take such youths as had graduated in this school. The committee will soon publish a prospectus giving initiation in regard to the scope of studies and various details of more remote interest. The summer the St. Marys will probably cruise in the sound.

THE BURNING OF THE RIVER BELLE.

THE RURNING OF THE RIVER BELLE

Yesterday morning the local Board of United States Steam Ship Inspectors, consisting of Messrs. Simonsen and Matthews, commenced their investigation into the cause of the destruction by fire of the steamer faver Belle, plying between New York and Sandy Hook. The vessel in question was the property of the American Steamboat Com-pany of Providence, R. I., and was valued at $100,000, but was only insured for $60,000. The are $100,000, but was only insured for $60,000. The fire took place at midnight about a month ago, while the vessel was lying at her wharf in thus city. Several of the officers were examined restordsy at considerable length, but nothing definite was arrived at as to the cause of the fire. The whole testimony seemed to show that everybody was asleep when the fire broke out. The evidence being thus moonclustve the inspectors adjourned the examination till next week, when it is hoped more satisfactory testimony will be forthcoming. It is not decided whether she River Belle will be rebuilt or not, she having been burned, it may be remembered, to the water's edge.

WESTCHESTER.

At Yonkers last evening the republican primaries to elect delegates to the Assembly and county conventions elicited an unusually heavy vote. A scheme is understood to be in preparation having for its object another division of of Yonkers. The project contemplates the forming of a new town out of the Fourth ward of that city and a portion of Eastenester. Should the scheme be consummated, which is scarcely prob-able, the residents of Yonkers will doubtless allow the seceders to "depart in peace," provided the

THE PAPAL ZOUAVES.

Grand Requiem Mass at St. Ann's Church for These Who Fell in Detence of the Pope.
Four years ago the autonomy of the States of the Church was destroyed by the entry of the troops of King Victor Emmanuel into Rome. The oldest and most righteously founded monarchy, or rather patriarchate, in Europe was overturned in one short campaign, and the few who threw ble Pontiff were commemorated yesterday by a solemn grand requiem mass at the leading Catho lic churches of the metropolis. Rev. Father Preston preached very earnestly and pathetically on the subject of the commemoration. His lan-guage was full of fervor and indignation when he referred to the usurpation of the present King of Italy and the incalculable wrong done to the Church in the person of her head. He characterized the action of Victor Emmanuel as criminal, as spoliation, sacrilege, robbery, unwarrantable intrusion. Although society, unsound to the core, intrusion. Although society, unsound to the core, countenances this heinous wrong and nations which should be the first to resent it stand only by and even take the usurper oy the hand, the Catholic Church protests and will never cease to protest against this horrible, inexcusable outrage against the laws of God and man.

The mass was sang by the magnificent choir of M. Lous Dachauer, the soloists being Mile. Herrietta Corradi, soprano (formerly prima donna of the Grand opers); Mile. Octavic Gomien, the best church contraito in the city; Herrifitsch, tenor, and Herr Blum, bass. The mass selected was Rossin's "Requiem"—an adaptation and an admirable one, too, from his great works. The "Eyrie" was arranged from the opening of the "jell" overture, the "Dies frae" was framed in the best numbers of the "Stalat Mater," the "Sanctus" was from one of his earlier operss, and the "Agaus Dei" was the prayer from "Molse." It was rendered superbly and produced a fine effect.

Rev. Father Preston gave the following account of the memorable 10th of September, 1870, the commemoration of which comes nearly a montulater this year:—

On the 10th of September an army of 60,000 men and 166 guns encompassed the Holy City. There was not, and there had not been, the slightest disquiet within the walls, nor any appearance of revolution in the Papal States. No internsl movement had called this army to its attack, and Christian history certainly has no parallel to this violation of all faw and justice. It was in vain for Pius IX. to contend, with his lattic force, against a slege like this. The following is the order then issued to the general of his small but gallant army:—"At this moment, when a great sacringe and the most enormous injustice is assent to be consummated, and the troops of a Catholic King, without provocation, may, without even the least appearance of sny moture, surround and besiege the capital of the Caristian world, i leel, in the first place, the necessity of thanking you and the valor of the army in defence of this

They reached the ground about eleven o'clock in the morning and the ranks of the different organizations were well filled. The men presented a soldierlike appearance and marched well. At hair-past eleven o'clock General Dakin and Colonel J. R. Dinslow, the brigade inspector, took their position near the centre of the parade ground, and from that point reviewed the troops as they passed.
